

SCHOOL PROFILE FOR UNIVERSITY ADMISSIONS OFFICERS.

ESTABLISHED 1963, United World College SINCE 1981

Founded in 1963 as a direct response to the separate and unequal education systems in South Africa, Waterford Kamhlaba's student body is international, yet it has a special focus on its place and role in Southern Africa: over 70% of the students come from countries within the continent. The college pays particular attention to the human and development needs of Swaziland and addresses these through a strong and challenging community service programme.

Waterford Kamhlaba offers a five-year course to Cambridge IGCSE and the two year IB Diploma Program. It maintains a policy of merit as the only criterion for admission. The College's academic year runs from January to November with all IB courses being taught throughout the three terms in both years.

The United World College ethos

- Academic excellence, personal growth, international understanding and community service form the core of all United World College programmes.

These are realized through:

- The study of the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme
- A demanding programme of community service
- Inter-cultural activities
- Special events devoted to global issues affecting young people and the world in general
- Active promotion of leadership and personal development

The Curriculum at Waterford Kamhlaba

Waterford kaMhlaba United World College is a co-educational, non-denominational international school, which provides education from Form 1 (11 years old) through to the International Baccalaureate Diploma section. Entry into the IB DP section is competitive: some students apply externally from the region having successfully completed O'Level or IGCSE or a curriculum of similar standing. Others will be admitted from our own Form 5, though entry from this route remains competitive. Lastly, some forty or so students each year are selected on merit by United World Colleges' approved Selection Committees in each country, often as a result of a highly competitive process. The College attracts an unusually diverse and talented group of students from a very wide range of socio-economic circumstances.

At the College the medium of instruction is English.

Only the briefest of familiarization for SATs has been provided

CEEB code 642210: UCAS 47221: IB Code 0146.

Our website is www.waterford.sz The website for Cambridge International Examinations is www.cie.org.uk and for the IB, www.ibo.org

We do not rank nor do we compute averages, neither GPA nor IB. We do not offer honor or AP programmes. In 2015 the average Diploma result was 33 points, with 15 students gaining 40 or more points. About half of our students receive the Bilingual Diploma. All proceed to degree programmes.

Please note that Waterford students apply to seven US colleges maximum.

Transcripts requested/provided from the end of September in the IB2 year will provide the term grades for the 5 terms of the 2 year program. Predicted Grades are also recorded on the transcripts but not made known to our candidates. IB final exams are written in November and results released on January 6 of the following year. The IB Coordinator can confirm results on this date with a supporting certified copy of the advice as published by IB on the IBNET: original certificates do not reach the school before February however.

Further information on IB graduates can be sought from the University Advisor, John Storer: email careers@waterford.sz fax and telephone as per letterhead.
